

TRAIN STATION MASTER SIDE

34

INT. WILLISTON TRAIN STATION - TICKET WINDOW. DAY.

34

Jacobson stands at the Ticket Window talking to the Train Master. Taylor is right behind him, trying to get a word in.

JACOBSON

Albert and Lulia Haven. And four children: Daniel, Leland, Mary, and Chas. Sometime in the last month. On their way to Oregon, supposedly.

TAYLOR

Wait... C.A...

Jacobson ignores him as the Station Master checks a ledger. *

TRAIN MASTER

Don't believe I saw them here, but I'll sure check.

TAYLOR

(quiet, to Jacobson)
What good is this?

JACOBSON

Proof.

TAYLOR

The only thing you could prove here is that they did leave. I'm going to show the absence of a train ticket to a judge? I need something so we can question Bannon. Legally.

Jacobson grimaces - this is quickly getting complicated. The Train Master looks up from his book.

TRAIN MASTER

It doesn't look as though they've been through. You could try the station in Oregon? Might try the postmaster there as well...

Jacobson begins to leave mid-sentence.

TAYLOR

(to Train Master)
Thanks. (calling to Jacobson) C.A., I have an idea.

He chases after Jacobson.
